Reading I

Reading — Inside an Architecture Firm (extract)
The firm has been working on small-scale public buildings — kindergartens, libraries, a community centre — for the past fifteen years. The senior architect, who founded the firm at 31, says the biggest professional change of her career has been the shift from drawing on paper to building on screen. The biggest skill, she adds, has not changed: listening to a brief twice before answering once.

Vocabulary — workplace (extended) portfolio, brief, milestone, deliverable, stakeholder, senior / junior, line manager, probation, performance review, mentor, mentee, feedback loop, pivot, lateral move, soft skills, hard skills.

Practise I

Niveau E — controlled

1. Match: brief → instructions; milestone → checkpoint; deliverable → finished output.
2. T or F: the senior architect said the biggest skill is drawing.

Niveau E — productive

3. Build 5 sentences using 5 workplace-vocabulary words about a real or imagined internship.

Your turn I

Structured job-interview role-play. 5 minutes each direction. 6 questions including: experience, motivation, mistake / lesson, future ambition. Use 2 present perfect continuous + 1 third conditional + 1 despite / because of.

Sample

— What experience do you bring? — I have been doing weekend shifts at a café for two years. Despite the limited scope, the work has taught me to read a busy room. If I had started earlier, I would already have line-manager experience.
