Lead-in

Sam pieced the two halves of Captain Cody's map together on Lina's kitchen table. Half from his envelope. Half from a hollow book in the school library. The whole map showed a coastline, an X, and the words Tomorrow's tide will tell. Lina stared at the map. "This is either the best or the worst week of our lives." Sam said, "Both, maybe."

Key points

- will for predictions and spontaneous decisions:
- be going to for plans and visible evidence:
- Time clauses: when, as soon as, before + present simple.

Practise

- Choose: will or going to: We have already booked tickets — we _____ travel tomorrow.
Look at the clouds — it _____ rain.
- Time clause: I will text you _____ I arrive.
- Build 4 sentences: two with going to (plans) and two with will (predictions).
